

Architects and Engineers get Boost with BQE Software's New Project Center

May 31, 2024

BQE Software, a leading provider of project management software for businesses, has announced the launch of its innovative Project Center. This new tool aims to streamline project management processes and boost profitability for businesses of all sizes.

Traditionally, businesses have grappled with project management software that's either too complex or lacks essential features. Project Center addresses this by offering a centralized hub that consolidates all critical project data and insights in one place. Teams have real-time visibility into project progress, performance, and invoicing – all on a single screen. This empowers project managers, executives, and everyone involved to confidently deliver successful projects and ensure timely payments.

“Our customers are constantly balancing the demands of project delivery and financial success on their projects,” said Chris Vernon, Director of Product Management at BQE Software. “By encapsulating the state of the project, Project Center gives project teams approachable, actionable insights.”

Key Features of BQE CORE with Project Center:

- Intuitive Project Management: Manage all project aspects – phases, tasks, timelines, budgets, invoicing, staffing, and documents – within a single, user-friendly interface.
- Enhanced Data Visualization: Gain clear insights into project profitability, billability, earned value analysis, and other crucial metrics for maximizing margins.
- Deeper Data Exploration: Drill down beyond headlines to access underlying data and make informed decisions.
- Granular Permissions: Maintain confidentiality while keeping teams informed through individual and role-based permission controls.

Enterprise Power, Accessible Price

“We’ve been investing heavily in our product to help our customers generate better project and firm performance. I’m excited about the step-change value we’ll provide our customers through Project Center and am looking forward to delivering on our robust product roadmap this year,” said Matt Cooper, CEO of BQE Software.

BQE CORE stands out from the competition by offering the robust data visualization and analytical capabilities of enterprise software at an affordable price point. This makes it an ideal solution for businesses of all sizes looking to streamline project management and boost their bottom line.
