

BuildOps and NexCore partner to drive HVAC industry growth

July 22, 2024

BuildOps, a leading provider of all-in-one sales, service, and project management software for commercial contractors, has announced a strategic partnership with NexCore, a prominent platform for building services and facility management.

This collaboration aims to leverage BuildOps' advanced technology to accelerate NexCore's growth and operational excellence within the HVAC sector.

NexCore, known for its strategic acquisitions and operational excellence, is rapidly expanding its footprint in the commercial HVAC market. By integrating BuildOps' software solutions, NexCore will streamline operations, enhance efficiency, and position itself for continued growth.

"We are ecstatic to partner with such a distinguished company as NexCore," said Michael Carey, VP of Strategy at BuildOps. "Their relentless pursuit of growth and operational excellence perfectly aligns with our mission to deliver the best technology solutions to commercial contractors. Together, we will build upon NexCore's remarkable achievements and drive even greater success in the future."

"Partnering with BuildOps marks a significant milestone for NexCore," said Steve Knowles, CEO of NexCore. "Their cutting-edge technology and profound industry expertise will be pivotal in supporting our growth and upholding our commitment to excellence. We eagerly anticipate working closely with BuildOps to achieve our shared goals."