August 13, 2024

Ethiopian Airlines Group has announced the award of a consultancy contract to a consortium led by Dar Al-Handasah Consultants (Shair and Partners) for the design of its new global hub airport in Abusera. The airport is a cornerstone of the airline’s 15-year strategic plan to become a global aviation leader.

The new airport, set to be Africa’s largest, will have an initial capacity of 60 million passengers annually, expanding to 110 million passengers in subsequent phases. Its strategic location, lower altitude, and planned express rail link to Addis Ababa will enhance operational efficiency and passenger experience.

Ethiopian’s CEO Mesfin Tasew stated: “With its exceptional capacity and world-class facilities, this new airport promises to elevate African aviation.”
