

PMWEB Opens Registration for Projections Conference 2026, Bringing Global Capital Project Leaders to San Diego

January 23, 2026

PMWEB has announced the launch and opening of registration for Projections Conference 2026, its flagship event for leaders responsible for planning, managing, and delivering large-scale capital projects and portfolios.

Taking place from 29 April to 1 May 2026 at the Manchester Grand Hyatt in San Diego, the conference will convene executives and project leaders from sectors including transportation, healthcare, higher education, real estate, government, and technology. The focus is on how owner-operators are rethinking project delivery, improving performance, and managing increasing complexity across capital programs.

Huw Roberts, CEO of PMWEB, said the conference offers an inside view of how leading organisations are raising the bar for capital delivery worldwide, with a strong emphasis on practical insights that teams can apply directly to their own projects.

The three-day programme will feature project spotlights showcasing real-world case studies, a technology outlook exploring advances in lifecycle project management and AI-enabled workflows, and hands-on learning sessions designed to build capability in managing capital portfolios. An awards gala will recognise excellence through the Project Empowerment Awards, while structured networking opportunities will enable attendees to connect with peers and industry experts.

Projections Conference 2026 is positioned as a forum for organisations seeking to strengthen visibility, accountability, and alignment between project delivery and broader business objectives. Registration and further details are available via PMWEB's website.